

CITY ACCEPTS SEWER GRANT

The Mayor and city council met July 16th and accepted the grant of $38,537 to help finance a city sewer system. It is estimated that it will cost $129,000 and the balance will be financed by bonds which will be secured by the water system and the sewer system. The bonds will not be a lien against any other property. It will be necessary to advertise and sell the bonds before work can begin. The survey has been made by the engineers. The lines will be built to property on all the streets. Present at the meeting was Mayor Evans, and councilmen: Woody Stapp, Burt Stapp, Chas. Black, Ora McClain and S. E. Craft.

TOBACCO FIELDS HIT BY DISEASE

County Agent Carl Sinclair said this week he had received several inquiries from farmers having trouble with tobacco disease.

The most serious disease affecting burley tobacco in the county, particularly some of the growers in the Cannel City and Adel communities, is Fusarium wilt, which is a soil born disease. Many years ago the burley tobacco variety Kentucky 35 was developed by the Kentucky Experiment Station to be resistant to this very serious tobacco disease, which first shows a yellowing and dying of plants down one side of the plant with the inside cambium layer showing dark to black on that side of the plant, even the whole plant yellows and dies.

Some people who do not know tobacco diseases had told some of the growers last year that it was Black Shank. This is not true, as there has not been a case in the county. Farmers who have this condition in their tobacco fields if they do not wish to grow 35 and want to stick to their pet variety, then will have to move to other soil for their burley fields.

The county agent has also made some field checks where the disease of Wildfire was present. To prevent this condition buds should be treated in the fall of the year with methyl Bromide gas and the recommendation for treating young plant buds in the spring should be followed. If the grower has serious cases of Wildfire after year and does not want to do these things, shift to Burley 21 or one of the other varieties.

OLD P. O. BOXES NOW IN HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Chances are that your old West Liberty post office box is now being used by a Hawaiian at Oahu in the Hawaiian Islands. If post office boxes could talk, they could tell many an interesting story, not the last of which could be a travelogue.

Back in December of 1932 when the large frame building housing the store of Blair, Bellamy and Caskey on the corner of Main and Prestonsburg streets burned, the post office which was nearby burned also, and the Post Office Department had some secondhand boxes sent to West Liberty from one of the Carolinas. These boxes moved around quite a bit as post office quarters were set up in various buildings. Then Lynn B. Wells built a frame building on the lot now occupied by the Rex Theatre, and this became the post office. Again the boxes were moved to the new location.

Major Gardner Declared Winner In Commonwealth Attorney Race

W. Major Gardner

Special Judge Landon Bright of Flemingsburg Monday ordered that Commonwealth's Attorney W. Major Gardner be declared winner of the Democratic nomination for re-election in the 37th Judicial District.

He acted after Ralph N. Walter withdrew his petition contesting Gardner's victory in the May 28 primary. Gardner withdrew his counter-claim suit. Judge Landon, sitting in Morgan Circuit Court, ordered confirmed the canvas of the election returns showing Gardner the winner by 137 votes.

There is no Republican opponent for Gardner in the November election.

Walter had contested many absentee ballots were counted illegally and that if they were disregarded Walter would have been the winner by 11 votes.

Gardner contended that some 211 other votes had been cast improperly for Walter and that he was the winner.

Wm. R. Redwine Wins

Special Judge Landon Bright of Flemingsburg dismissed the contest case of County Attorney Virgil Redwine against William R. Redwine for the Democratic nomination for Elliott County Attorney.

Judge Bright also dismissed the counter-claim of William R. Redwine. Both dismissals were made with the agreement of the parties at a special term of court here Thursday.

Judge Bright at the initial hearing of the case several days ago indicated after his count of the precinct voting showed William R. had a majority of 1 vote, that the question of absentee votes become a moot question.

Virgil, who had won by 2 votes before absentee ballots were counted, filed a contest suit after the counting of the absentee ballots gave William a majority of 42. Judge Bright recounted the precinct voting. Thus, the judge did not consider the question of absentee ballots.

Nomination of William R. Redwine is tantamount to election as County Attorney since there is no Republican candidate.

Decisions Not To Be Announced To The Public, Said

Even if the little burley tobacco growers in Morgan county win their appeals before the ASC board of review, in session in West Liberty this week, in most cases they are bound to lose, The Courier-Journal reported Thursday.

Rulings of the board, appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture on the recommendation of the State ASC committee, will come too late for farmers to produce a tobacco crop this year. The 1957 tobacco-planting season has ended.

The Courier-Journal carried front page stories Wednesday and Thursday on the hearings in West Liberty. Gerald Griffin, head of the Louisville paper's East Kentucky Bureau, reported the proceedings.

"At this late date the farmers are without relief even if the board finds in their favor and all they can hope for is a vacant and hollow victory," Griffin quoted Wm. B. Gess as declaring. Gess, a Lexington attorney, represented four of the eight farmers in their appeals from penalties imposed for alleged violations of ASC regulations in the 1954 crop year.

Eight of 11 Morgan appellants were heard by the board of review held in the county ASC office Tuesday and Wednesday. Three other farmers who had filed appeals from penalties, withdrew their appeals.

Unlike the conduct of appeal cases held last year, this week's hearings were held in the front room of the county ASC's three-room suite of offices in the post office building rather than in the court house. Also unlike last year, decisions of the board were not announced. Each farmer was told he would be notified of the board's decision by mail.

The board of review was composed of farmers from Fayette, Jessamine, Powell and Lee counties.

Homer Younts, Lexington, program specialist from the State ASC office, represented the ASC. S. J. Stokes of near Lexington, served as chairman of the review board. He had served on the board at the hearings here last year.

A day-to-day account of the proceedings was given by Griffin in his dispatches to the Courier-Journal. This paper publishes them hereunder.

Tuesday's Proceedings

West Liberty, Ky., July 16—Appealing from penalties assessed against them for allegedly exceeding tobacco quotas in the 1954 crop year, five Morgan County farmers appeared here today before a board of review.

The board, appointed by the Kentucky ASC, an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture, is composed of S. J. Stokes, Jr., Fayette County; E. C. Reed, Powell County, and W. Heger Hollen, Lee County.

Findings of the board were not disclosed.

Each applicant was told that he would be notified of the board's ruling in his case by registered mail.

Remaining to be heard tomorrow are seven other small tobacco producers.

Cut After '56 Survey

Tobacco bases of 119 Morgan County farmers were reduced or eliminated for one year after a 1956 survey of the 1954 crop. Thirty-four of these filed appeals last year from the decision of the county ASC committee, with 29 winning reversal.

The county committee is composed of J. F. Ferguson, Joe Jenkins and Ben Cox.

Farmers heard today had 1954 tobacco bases ranging from .5 to 2.7 acres. They are Merrill Lewis, Zag, J. W. Hurl, Ezel; Clarence Coie, Ezel; Lonnie Ferguson, Dingus, and Winford Kennard, Logville.

All but Kennard denied that they had exceeded their allotments. Kennard, who had paid a $102.60 penalty, admitted that he had produced a small amount of tobacco on that part of his farm that lies in adjacent Magoffin County, and "was aiming to get by with it if I could."

Franklin Reynolds, Lexington, A.S.C. investigator, appeared in answer to the appeals heard today. Homer Younts, Lexington specialist in investigation for the state committee, questioned appellants, only two of whom, Hurl and Reynolds, were present.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT MEET HELD AT WEST LIBERTY

A district meeting of the vocational teachers and directors was held in West Liberty Wednesday, in charge of the meeting was James Patton, State Director, Frankfort.

Attending were D. E. Bayless, F. Ishmael and representatives of Morgan, Elliott, Magoffin and Wolfe counties. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss approaches and methods for development of rural development projects.

Walter Dismisses Contest Action

After the votes were counted in the precincts in Morgan and Elliott Counties and having received the majority of those votes in both counties, it is my feeling that I received the nomination by the vote of the free will of the people of this district. For that reason, I originally intended to challenge the absentee ballots cast in Morgan and Elliott Counties, because of the numerous irregularities in the voting of those ballots, as well as the legality of the ballots themselves. There were 561 absentee ballots cast in Elliott county and 407 absentee ballots removed from the ballot books in Morgan county. However, when I started preparing my case on that theory, my opponent was unwilling to rest his case on the decision as to whether or not these ballots were legal and insisted on having a general contest on the votes in the district. There were approximately 250 votes in the precinct challenged by my opponent as well as the entire precinct of Cannel City in Morgan County. This type of a law suit would have necessitated the use of some 4 or 500 witnesses, all of whom could claim pay for their attendance in court, which in addition to the cost of summoning these witnesses and the taking of the proof, would have amounted to some several thousand dollars. I was not financially able to afford a law suit of this nature and for that reason I dismissed the contest action which I had filed in the Morgan Circuit Court.

I have also in recent weeks discussed this matter with a number of those persons whose votes had been challenged and it would be embarrassing to them to have to come into court and testify as to how they voted, and I have to desire to force any innocent voter to be so compelled to testify openly in court as to how he had voted in the race for commonwealth attorney. Since this action has been pending I have discussed the matter of absentee voting with several members of the Legislature and others in position of authority and it appears that the next session of the Kentucky Legislature will repeal the law in regard to absentee voting, and if this is done, it may provide some protection and assurance of fair elections in the future.

I appreciate very much the support and encouragement that I received throughout my campaign and on through the recent weeks. However, I feel that I have taken the only course that was left for me and I will be forever grateful for the many kindnesses and actions of assistance given to me by the people of Morgan county.

Sincerely yours,
RALPH N. WALTER

STATE BERRIES NOT POISONED BY LOCUST

Housewives in Kentucky may safely proceed at full steam-ahead in their making of blackberry jams, jellies and canned or frozen fruit.

Entomologists at the Experiment Station at the University of Kentucky branded as "entirely false" a current report that blackberries and other fruits are poisoned by the 17-year locust, or cicada. It is only an old superstition, with no basis of fact, they said, that fruits are poisoned by the eggs laid by the locust.

"Blackberries and other fruits produced in locust-infested plants will in no way be affected insofar as edibility is concerned," the scientists said.

Abandoned School Becomes Church

By Bernard E. Whitt
Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Wells of West Liberty invited my wife and me to visit their Sunday school at Licking River last Sunday. About two years ago the community organized a Sunday school and church. Rev. R. B. Rose of Hazel Green has been teaching the class and Rev. Charles Frederick conducts church services the first Sunday in each month.

The Sunday school meets at 2 p.m. As Mr. Rose was absent, Mildred McLain, a visitor, taught the lesson. Most of those present were adults. Mrs. Ezra Wells gave the invocation. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lewis. Mr. Lewis is 87 and has missed Sunday school only one time when they had company. Others present were Mrs. Rhoda May, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wells—Mr. Wells does not hear good and his wife sat by him and wrote for him what the teacher said—Mrs. Mollie Henry, Powell Henry, Mrs. Joyce Moyer—a teacher at Fort Lauderdale, Florida and former teacher in Morgan—Mrs. Netty Lewis, Ben and Dave McLain. The school was abandoned a few years ago and the children transported to West Liberty. The site is very beautiful. The building is surrounded by a grove of beech and poplars overlooking Licking River. In 1910 a railroad was built down Caney Valley to the river.

There were large tracts of timber owned by Math and Frank Lewis, Willis Henry, Ezra Wells, Jonah Wells and others. John A. Graham and David Graham of Canada purchased much of the timber and a large mill operated for several months to work the timber which was shipped to a factory and made into furniture. A good size town grew up and Dr. C. C. Burton was their company physician.

The company, however, went broke and Joe F. Reed was appointed receiver to close the business. Another company—The Caney City Manufacturing Company—was organized. The late Harry Jones was president and purchasing agent. F. E. Faulkner was secretary-treasurer. They purchased the Bill Phillips timber and other tracts.

Much of the land was originally owned by John T. Lewis and is now owned by Willard Lewis, Rhoda May, Frank Lewis, Melvin Wells, Math Lewis, George Allen, Henry Wells, Austin Hill and others. The area was probably composed of 1500 or 2000 acres. Benjamin Wells, grandfather of Ezra Wells, owned a large tract and the John T. Lewis land was part of it.

Dan Lewis says that John Lewis bought some of the land from Benjamin Wells. A days work for an acre of land. Lewis says he had a yellow horse when he was young and would loan it to Jonah Wells to take corn and wheat to the John T. Williams water mill at Liberty Road to grind. Their horse was so high they could hardly get a turn of corn on it.

The railroad was abandoned and moved in 1933 and a good highway now goes down Caney from Index and across the hill to Neal Valley and on to West Liberty. Passing the new grade school building on top of Wells Hill, one can see a wide expanse of country and the town of West Liberty. This is an example of our changing life and changing communities. A railroad, large saw mill, camp houses, one room school, commissary, water mill—all this has given way to a highway and a quiet country church and Sunday school with happy and contented citizens.

Farm-Home Field Day Set July 30

Morgan County's Annual Farm and Home Field Day will be held at the farm and home of Mr. and Mrs. Volney McGuire at Grassy Creek. Visitors will have a lot to see including one of Morgan County's most beautiful farm homes, planned by the McGuire family. Inside the home Mrs. McGuire has used good taste in her beautiful decorations. Everything has been planned for convenience and beauty. She has all the electrical equipment that anyone would ask for, in order to save time and energy. This also gives her time to help Mr. McGuire on the farm and take care of a large garden. Her basement shelves are loaded with fruits and vegetables with the use of a large freezer they produced their own food besides curing of her own meat. Mr. McGuire also has used recommendations on the farm for soil erosion control and has constructed farm ponds with the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service. Their farm is one of the most beautiful show places in the county. Mrs. McGuire is a member of the Grassy Lick Homemakers and has used each lesson she has received at the monthly meetings in her home. The McGuires are active in community events and are always seen at the County Agricultural meetings, R.E.A. field day and Annual meeting, and school activities. Mr. McGuire served on the board of Education for many years. They invite their many friends in Morgan County to visit them on the 30th. This is an opportunity for the farm people and the town people of West Liberty to have a day on the farm together, says County and Home Agents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sinclair.

H. C. Gevedon, about 39, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Frank Gevedon of Grassy Creek, died Monday night in an ambulance enroute to a hospital after coming in contact with a high tension wire while working at Salyersville earlier in the day. Gevedon, an employee of Licking River Limestone Company, came in contact with the wire at about 4:30 p.m. (C.S.T.) while hooking after a drag line. He dragged the cable into the wire, while working with the road construction company on a Salyersville street. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Courier—
I'm always glad to get my paper from home, just like getting a letter. Was so sorry to see where my good friend Nancy Phipps Turner had passed away. She was a relative of mine and I always thought her a very fine person. Every all of my West Liberty friends could not have attended our 50th year anniversary here. We have been having very large crowds from all over the world. I was so glad to see my friends, and Mrs. Henry Carter, son and daughter and Miss Hickox. Mr. Carter's secretary of Frankfort. We had one Kentucky day here, the very day the Carters returned home. Wish they had stayed for that as they had a special luncheon for Kentuckians. Several from Lexington and Louisville were here. I enjoyed having the Carters in my home.

I wonder why my paper is late the last few months. I hardly ever get it before Wednesday and I use to always get it on Mondays. Yes, I forgot to tell you Mrs. Charles Allen Neal of Nicholasville, Ky., visited here in June. She is the widow of Dr. Charles Neal, formerly of West Liberty. She visited her son and wife and baby, Lieutenant Charles Allen Neal, who is stationed in Enid, Oklahoma, in the Air Force. She also visited her brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Neal of El Reno, Okla. I entertained her with a family dinner in my home including all relatives of El Reno, Enid and Oklahoma City.

I'm always delighted to see any of my old friends or relatives from Kentucky. Keep my Courier coming.

The Courier—
Do hope all of our Kentucky friends are well and happy. We are feeling better.

I am enclosing a picture of our son receiving his diploma from College of Pharmacy. We would appreciate it if you would print this in our home town paper, as he was born in Morgan county, went to kindergarten in West Liberty and of course, Mrs. Nancy Turner was his first teacher. He went to school at West Liberty until 1942 when we sold our home in Morgan county. J. B. graduated from high school here in Fairborn in 1949 then entered State University of New Mexico. After 18 months of college he volunteered for the Air Force and served his country three years, serving two years in France. When he was discharged he returned to the College of Pharmacy. We always love to receive our home town paper. It gives us so much news of people we know and love.

J. B.'s wife is a college graduate of Home Economics.

ROBT. L. JONES, 30, DIES IN ACCIDENT

Robert L. Jones, 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Jones of Insko and a resident of Johnson Fork, was killed instantly Monday in an accident at Knett Creek, West Virginia, while unloading 10-inch pipe from a truck.

Preparing to unload the pipe at an oil well, Jones loosened the boom chains on each end of the load. He had difficulty unfastening the boom of the middle chain and got on top of the pipe to unfasten it. When unfastened, the pipe commenced rolling. Jones jumped but was caught in the rolling pipe and instantly killed.

He had hauled the pipe from Prestonsburg to the well at Knett Creek where the accident took place.

Funeral rites were conducted at Insko Wednesday with Rev. J. Ryan Nevius, Rev. Ivan Hinton and Rev. Forrest Bailey officiating. Interment was in the family cemetery on the head of the Lindon Fork of Johnson under direction of the Potter Funeral Home.

Surviving besides the parents are his wife, the former Miss Vivian Arnett, and two children, Larry Joe and Janet Lee; a brother, Jasper Jones, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, and a sister, Mrs. Mitchell Wells of Ashland. Morehead To Get Dial Phone System

General Telephone Company of Kentucky last week allocated $400,000 for a new district headquarters building and improvements at Morehead.

Included is conversion to dial phones by Morehead patrons by April 21 of next year.

The entire improvement plan will cost 400,000. The building is expected to be completed by Jan. 2.

This is far and away the greatest expenditure ever made at Morehead on the telephone system.

The dial equipment will be all new, the most modern available. It will include ten switchboard positions and operator toll dialing.

Most counties served by General in this area are under jurisdiction of the Morehead district office. Olive Hill, Owingsville, Elletts and Morgan counties and other places are served on out-going and incoming long distance service out of Morehead.

Later the lot was sold and the building moved to a location behind Stamper's restaurant; still later, the building was moved back a few feet more to make room for a dining addition to the restaurant. There the building and boxes remained for several years.

When the new post office building was completed last year, the old boxes went along to their new home, but not for long. New equipment, including new boxes, was moved in, and out went the boxes that had served West Liberty patrons more than two decades.

Later, Postmaster J. Wendell Nickell received instructions from the Post Office Department to ship a crate of the boxes to the postmaster at Cincinnati, to be reshipped by the B & O Railroad to the postmaster at Baltimore, Md. The Baltimore postmaster was to reship the boxes on a boat to the Isthmian S. S. Co. through the Panama Canal to the postmaster at Honolulu, Hawaii, and the postmaster at Honolulu would reship them to the post office of Olua.

Postmaster Nickell says new boxes would have been shipped the same way, and thus the post office department saved the expense of new boxes.

So—if your box was among those on the shipment, it quite likely is now in use by a Hawaiian at the post office at Olua.

MORGAN BURLEY CROP BEST

Tobacco in Morgan county is considerably better at this stage of the season than in many other sections of Kentucky, Tennessee and the Carolinas. C. K. Stacy said Sunday after returning from a week's vacation through the Smokies. He went as far south as Hendersonville, accompanied by Mrs. Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. Jamar Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wells. On Sunday he visited many crops in Morgan. "Our tobacco in Morgan right now is better than any I saw in the Bluegrass, in Tennessee or the Carolinas," he said. "Morgan and Owsley counties have the best crops I saw anywhere," he added.

CANCER WARNING

The Kentucky State Department of Health has received from the Federal Food and Drug Administration the following notice which is of vital importance:

"The Food and Drug Administration issued a public warning that the Hoxey treatment for internal cancer distributed by the Hoxey Cancer Clinics at Dallas, Texas, and Portage, Pennsylvania is worthless and may be dangerous to those who rely upon it instead of obtaining competent medical treatment. All persons who may be considering the Hoxey treatment are advised to secure a copy of the warning notice."

Write to: Food and Drug Administration, Washington 25, D.C. This warning is an official notice of the U. S. Government.

The food industry, from grower to retailer, has about 8,000 additional customers to feed each day at the current rate of population increase.

These practices stem from research, Bortner said, showing that: (1) Waiting until the field is well bloomed out before topping reduces nicotine content under what it would be if plants were topped "in bud";

(2) If the plant is topped too early, higher than usual and the season is favorable, the grower may get an additional two "good" leaves; if season is unfavorable and the two top leaves are not good, they can be removed at cutting time (with the two top suckers) with one stroke of the knife.

(3) When the two top suckers remain on the plant, nicotine production is greatly retarded and development of suckers on the remainder of the plant is reduced.

(4) Pruning the lower four or five leaves produces good smoking tobacco (if they are properly cured); and also reduces the necessity for early cutting. Once the danger of the loss of these lower leaves is removed, the grower can leave the rest of the plant in the field to mature; this can mean more money at selling time.

Much more burley is damaged each year from being cut at the "too-green" stage than is damaged by harvesting at the over-ripe stage.

County Agent Favors Sheep For Carter

GRAYSON — Sheep production could be an important enterprise for Carter County, according to Charlie Mason county agent.

In counties where sheep are raised in large numbers they have reported more profit per investment than from any other livestock, the agent said. The average profit per ewe, including lambs and wool, averaging $20 to $25.

Some advantages of sheep are that a farmer can buy ewes and get returns from his herd in one year. Mr. Mason continued. Sheep are good grazers and little labor is involved in handling them and there is a very good market for lambs and wool, he said.

Eight Carter County farmers now have flocks and many more are planning to buy next year the agent stated. It is expected that a carload will be brought in next spring.

Coal-Bit Maker Shows Faith In East Kentucky

By KYLE VANCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 14—A man with faith in the future of economic-impoverished Eastern Kentucky is Wilbur R. Joy, who knows firsthand that industry can thrive in the mountain country. Joy, on a business trip to Frankfort, told in an interview how his own Coal Bit Company, Inc., at Prestonsburg grew out of a basement into a factory with ambitious expansion plans.

What Joy wanted to debunk was outside-industry's fear of competition for labor with highly unionized coal mines.

He said his experience had proved that many Eastern Kentuckians would prefer safer work at less money.

Danger Is The Reason
"The danger element of working in coal mines is the reason they (miners) can demand more pay," he said. "Any industry will be forced to pay a reasonable rate to get the labor."

He said he paid his workers more than mine rates at one time and that their wages compare favorably with mine pay now. At the same time, he added, he was encountered by no serious demands to "keep up with the miners."

Started In 1949

Before Eastern Kentucky can anticipate a genuine prosperous growth, he said, the Big Sandy must be canalized for cheaper transportation. In the meantime, however, it offers adequate rail and highway outlets.

Joy started his coal-bit-manufacturing venture with "an idea and a prayer" back in 1949. It has grown to a 19-man industry and is ready to double production and employment on short notice "when the coal slack ends."

Bits for coal-drilling machinery are made at the rate of 14,000 a day for customers in Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia.

He is the only bit manufacturer in Kentucky, but one operates in West Virginia and several in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

What Joy said, "is to become the largest bit manufacturer in the United States. I am planning now another plant in West Virginia and I would like to see the way clear for one in West Kentucky."

ASC APPEALS

William B. Gess, Lexington, was their advocate. Lewis had a base of .85 acres in 1954, but investigators claimed he had planted 1.22 acres. His allotment was reduced to zero. Investigators claim that they had discovered 1.88 acres not reported on his farm. His 1957 allotment was reduced to .23 acres.

Cole's Base Cut To Zero

Cole's 1954 base was 2.7 acres, reduced to zero for 1957 when investigators said they found he had exceeded his allotment by 3.5 acres.

Ferguson, who paid $67.76 penalty for allegedly exceeding his 5 acre base by 1 acre, was further penalized by a reduction of his base to 3 acres.

Kennard's 1954 base was .6 acre. Investigators claim that he exceeded this by .28 acre and the county committee reduced his 1957 allotment to .13 acre.

Reduction of these acreages was based mostly on the findings of old tobacco stubble in the fields. The investigators claimed that they could determine by the appearance of this stubble that it had been grown in 1954.

Wednesday's Proceedings

West Liberty, Ky., July 17—Even if the little Morgan County burley growers win their appeals before the board of review in session here this week, in most cases they are bound to lose.

Ruling of the board, appointed by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, the Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, will come too late for the farmers to produce a tobacco crop this year.

The 1957 tobacco-planting season already has ended. Acreage allotment reductions or cancellations imposed by the county ASC committee are in effect for only one year. In appeal cases heard here yesterday and today, penalties for alleged violations of the 1954 quotas became effective against the 1957 crop.

Representing the three farmers heard by the review board today, William B. Gess, Lexington attorney, criticized the Government's leaf-quota penalty system.

He said it is unfair to the farmers and is constitutionally erroneous to conduct hearings three months after applications have been filed for review.

At this late date, he pointed out, the farmers are without relief even if the board finds in their favor and all they can hope for is "a vacant and hollow victory." He pointed to the "gross neglect and willful treatment" afforded the farmers of this county.

One of the principal questions involved in these hearings is whether an investigator can tell from a tobacco stubble or dried stalk, the year in which the plant was grown. Franklin Reynolds, State ASC investigator, contended that he could tell 1954 tobacco from stubble found in fields in 1956. Acreage-allotments cuts were assessed against all three appellants heard today on the basis of these two-year-old stalks examined by Reynolds. Gess challenged Reynolds' ability to fix the age of these stalks.

Stratton Stunnett, Jasmine County, a regular member of the three-man board of review, today replaced E. C. Reed, Powell County, alternate member, at the appeal hearing in the West Liberty Postoffice Building.

Appeals heard today were those of A. L. Whitt, Redwine, William Vest, Richmond, Ind., who owns a farm at Omer, in this county and John Oldfield, Ezel.

The basis of Whitt's appeal was that the Morgan County ASC committee had overruled his 1957 acreage allotment by 8 of an acre. The ASC answer was that Whitt had failed to report a 1.05-acre excess over his 2.5-acre base in 1954. As a result, his 1957 allotment was reduced to 1.33 acres.

Although these figures appear small, they can mean considerable money to the growers who contend that even 1 of an acre of burley will bring in $100 when the crop is sold.

Whitt contended that the county committee erred in its computation in his case.

Vest set out 1.2 acres of tobacco in 1954 but 4 of an acre of this was destroyed when it was held in excess of his quota. The ASC contended that an examination of Vest's farm disclosed 7 of an acre excess and his 1957 allotment was reduced to .08 of an acre. But he didn't even have a chance to plant that meagre amount due to the delay in the hearing of his appeal. He contended that he didn't own the tobacco field in which the excess tobacco was grown. He said he had only two fields in tobacco in 1954. The ASC said he had three.

Oldfield, a comparatively large producer by Morgan County standards, marketed 8,292 pounds of burley in the 1954-55 marketing season. His base was 3.3 acres. The ASC contended that he failed to report a 1.5-acre excess from two unmeasured fields in 1954. And so his 1957 base was reduced to 1.27 acres. He is asking that his 1957 allotment be restored to 2.47 acres.
